

Steven Chan
Executive Director, Asia Mobility Initiative (AMI)

Steven Chan is the Executive Director of Asia Mobility Initiative (AMI). The current members of AMI alliance are Celcom (Malaysia), MobileOne (Singapore), SMART (Philippines), Excelcomindo (Indonesia), Telstra (Australia) and DTAC (Thailand).

Steven leads this regional alliance of mobile operators to develop products and services that will benefit members and their customers. He also manages AMI's relationships with vendors, suppliers and content providers.

Steven is on secondment from Singapore mobile operator MobileOne (M1) where he had been the Director of Internet Services and Product Development since 1999. Besides leading the development of many of M1's innovative services, Steven was instrumental in starting and managing M1's Application Developers' Community programme and M1-Nokia Future Lab. He is also a board member of Wireless Intellect Lab (WIL), a M1 R&D subsidiary.

A current member of the National Internet Advisory Council in Singapore, Steven was also actively involved in the Wireless Chapter of the Singapore Infocomm Technology Federation of which he was a founding member.

Trained as an engineer, Steven graduated with a First Class Honours degree in Electrical and Electronic Engineering from Singapore's Nanyang Technological University on a Singapore Armed Forces (SAF) scholarship in 1987.
