

Completed condo prices inch up 0.1% in September from August: NUS index

Prices of completed non-landed private homes inched up 0.1 per cent compared to August's 0.9 per cent. PHOTO: ST FILE

 PUBLISHED OCT 30, 2017, 1:26 PM SGT

 17

Ann Williams

SINGAPORE - Prices of completed non-landed private homes edged up in September, led by shoe-box units, according to flash estimates released by the National University of Singapore's Institute of Real Estate Studies on Monday (Oct 30).

Its Singapore Residential Price Index (SRPI) showed prices of these completed properties, which are mostly resale condominiums, inched up 0.1 per cent compared to the previous month's, slowing down from August's 0.9 per cent month-on-month increase.

Prices of small units, defined as having a floor area of not more than 506 square feet, improved by 0.9 per cent, while those of bigger units in the central area rose by 0.4 per cent. They offset a 0.2 per cent dip in the prices of bigger units outside the central area.

For the year to date, overall prices have risen 2.5 per cent, the index showed. Year-on-year, prices are 1.5 per cent higher than in September last year.